Friendship and Flattery.

When Friendship first came down to earth,

With heart of generous mould,

And soul of truth and heavenly worth,

'Twas in the age of gold.

She taught the love that came from God

For all humanity.

Street Pity in her footsteps trod.

With Faith and Charity.

But Flattery, as the world grew old,

Stole Friendship's honest face;

When Truth's stern accents grew less bold,

And Falsehood taught grimace.

Th' indignant martyr did not wrack

Her vengeance upon men,

Nor stoop on redemptive wing, to seek

Her home in heaven again.

She left her rival to reign o'er

The sunny path of life,

And loved the dark ones to explore

With sad misfortune rife.

Both to their own their end extend,

Each in her way a mother;

Success still finds the one a friend,

Adversity the other.

A Proper Young Man.

Two years ago, John L. Garthman, of Lewiston, Me., graduated with honors at Yale. As during his years in college he had, in addition to his regular studies, read law with an attorney of New Haven, it only required a year in a law office in Kokomo, Indiana, to fit him for admission to the bar, after which he immediately came to New York, and took up his abode in the city. Unfortunately for Mr. Garth-man, he discovered that there were already 6,000 lawyers in this city, all trying to get into practice, and there was about as much chance of his being elected to the presidency of the Office and board bills consumed the little means he had, and he was at the end of his string. As he was a month in service, his family commenced to regard him with looks not altogether pleasant, and the brutal bond-holder who owned the office he occupied notified him to pay or get out. Mr. Garthman discovered that while there was plenty of room on the upper shelves it would require a great many years of climbing, and that he would probably starve to death a great many times before he could reach the top of the ladder. He was so determined to quit law and try something else. He was a sensible young man, and so he did not

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

The voice of the people cries reform. This is not the cry of any particular faction, but the cry of the whole people. This is the only issue between the people, that is as to how the Government shall be administered. The people want the leaks stopped, they want the rotten timbers cut out of the ship of State. In a word, they demand that our political institutions have a complete and thorough overhauling. They have trusted their public servants with a faith that is unparalleled in the history of nations; they have quietly tolerated impositions that would have caused the people of a despotism to raise in revolution. They have and to-day are paying more for the support of their government than any nation under the sun. As long as there was a pretext for squandering the millions of the people, they freely paid the required millions, but now where is there a reasonable pretext for the collection of the untold amounts as taxes by the United States and by our State. True there is a debt to pay, but have we not had ten years of peace and unparalleled prosperity; has there not been billions of money paid into the national treasury by the people, and can we, I ask, distinguish any perceptible reduction of the public debt. This is the condition of things in the United States and this is the cause of the people being discontented. And how is it in our State? Will some man that is conversant with facts please figure up the amount of money that has been paid into our State treasury in the last ten years. Why it is absolutely fabulous. What has become of it, have we any great public works that are an honor to the State, have we built up any great public institutions of any kind? We have a State capital, insane asylum and penitentiary and a few sinecures for political favorites, and when that is said all is said. Has it taken all this money to honestly administer the State government? The people are suspicious that it has not. Count the cost of every public building in the State, both county, state and municipal, figure it all up, ascertain the round sum of their cost; then sir, take the municipal, county and state debts and figure them all up and see the result. It will show this: That the state, county and municipal debts of the State to-day are greater by half than the cost of construction of every public improvement in the State. The question then naturally arises what has become of the people's money, some may say that it has went to pay the salaries of the various officials. Very well, figure up the salaries paid each by law, which, God knows, is out of all manner of proportion to the amount of labor performed or responsibility attached to the positions, but figure it up and add it to the cost of the various public improvements throughout the State; then take the debts of the State, counties and towns and set the two amounts down, to wit: The cost of the improvements and salaries of officials; then bring in the entire public debt of the entire people of the State, and note the result. You will find that the debt is still larger than the whole thing combined. Now then, will some eminent politician commence to show the people what has become of the money paid into the State treasury? For our part, the conundrum is too much for us, we give it up. The people are troubled about the matter, however, and they demand and will have some kind of an explanation from their servants. They are becoming aroused and in the language of Senator Booth, (although it may be the clap-trap of a demagogic pandering to popular clamor), "The statesmanship that heeds not the voice of the masses is either drunken with pride or besotted with folly." It is true it is uttered for what, and whom it may.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Read what that moral sheet, the Yolo Mail, can say when it is mad: If we had been born at the notorious Five Points in New York; had been brought up in a brothel; educated in a bar-room; been deprived of any of the social qualifications which belong to a gentleman, and had been taught to laugh at others' misfortunes and smile at others' woes; been guilty of falsehood, violation of common decency, and never have been taught the smallest sprinkling of that courtesy due from man to man, or from beast to beast, we might find it in order to notice the mandarin efforts of the literary dwarf who writes for the Winters Advocate. —Yolo Mail.

We don't care where you were born, and if you were born at the Five Points we can't help it; in fact, we always thought you were born on Dupont street amongst your brethren which you and your master "Samuel" love so well. As to your being brought up in a brothel, we really did not think that the chances were that a well regulated institution of that kind would consider it a disgrace to have anything to do with the rearing of such a driveling idiot who never, even in his maturer years, had an idea of his own. As to your being educated in a bar-room, we don't believe it, as a bull calf if brought in contact with the men that daily frequent a bar room, would in a short time exhibit more common sense than you do; oh, no, we don't think you ever had such advantages unless you were born a quasi idiot, which may be the case. As to your being deprived of the social qualifications of a gentleman, we can't help that if it is so, you cannot blame us, because gentlemen have refused you such associations, the reason perhaps being their knowledge of the fact that your mental calibre would never be susceptible of sufficient cultivation to permit of your attempting such associations. If you have been taught to laugh at others' misfortunes and smile at others' woes, there is nothing great in that, you can teach a monkey that much, but we doubt if you would take the requisite amount of training to even do that. It is hard on the monkey to make the comparison, and of course we beg pardon of the monkey. As to being a liar, you are not at all responsible for that, as we believe that it is a well settled principle of law, that idiots are not responsible for anything they may do or say, especially the species that come under the head of "Mild or harmless idiots." If you violate common decency, and know nothing of the courtesy due from man to man. We shall advocate an idea to the effect that your owners hereafter keep you in a straight jacket secure from the observation of decent people, and from venting your idiotic and egotistical spewings on an intelligent and discriminating public. We did think that your groveling and beastly instincts would have taught you at least a modicum of the courtesy due from beast to beast; but we find that we are wrong, and if we were the happy possessor of a male species of swine familiarly known as the "Hazel splitter" breed we would stop the breed right there, if he should recognize an affinity between him self and the Mail. You can't answer us, for you have less sense than a young jack bird; less principal than a coyote; more vanity than a peacock and all of the despicable and groveling instincts of a digger Indian.

SO IT TURNS OUT DIFFERENT. The Democratic State Central Committee has exhibited considerable vim and good sense in rejecting the dishonest proposition of the Republicans for a union of the two parties. The attempt was made to thwart the will of the people and probably in the interest of thieves and monopolists. The Democrats have called their nominating convention to place candidates in the field for the Constitutional Convention, to meet at Sacramento on the 22d of May. Now then, let's see what kind of a platform they are going to put forth, what kinds of reforms they are going to propose, how they propose to amend and re-make the Constitution. Then let the Republicans meet and do likewise, let them tell the people in their platform what they are going to do, what reforms they propose. Then let the Workingmen put up their candidate on a platform. Then let the people carefully examine the men, the platforms, the motives and main springs that actuate the candidates and all the various powers behind the thrones, and then choose the man and platform that suits them best and is most likely to do what they promise. No stealing into the Convention without the enunciation of principles with us, it don't go.

So John Morrissey is dead, a man of great force of character, who by his natural sense raised himself from the prize ring in the great and educated State of New York to represent that State in the National Congress. He had no education to speak of and his associations were such, coupled with his chosen profession (a gambler) that one at a glance would think it impossible that he should ever attain a seat in the National Congress. But the only difference between him and thousands of other great men was simply this: He acted boldly and openly, his career, while others were just as bad, but concealed their lives by a cloak of hypocrisy.

Let any good man, qualified for the position of delegate to the Constitutional Convention in Yolo county, announce himself for that position, publishing his platform therewith. All the red tape of nominating conventions is all bosh, for if a man is qualified for the position he will be elected, that is if the people so judge, hence let no man stand back and wait for a few pig-headed nondescripts to tell him whether he can run for office or not. It's all bosh, we say, and is calculated to keep good men in the background.

MAY DAY FESTIVITIES.

VACAVILLE PIC-NIC AND EXCURSION. We boarded the train at Winters at precisely 9:30, and the author hereof was joyously seated when the general conductor Wensley sang out "all aboard." Dash, the well known Superintendent of the road, was here, there and everywhere, looking out for the comfort of everybody. To say the cars were full (three passenger cars and several flats), would not describe it; they were crammed and jammed to overflowing and everybody elated and stood up and sat down, and as the train swept along through magnificent fields of grain on every side, mirth and joy and silvery laughter echoed from one end of the train to the other. Here we stop to pick up paterfamilias with his brood of six or a broad-browed intelligent child. By the way, does not the pure air we breathe, the magnificent landscapes that stretch out from every farmer's door in this our magnificent State, have something to do with developing the intellect with creating a grander, wider, nobler, more intellectual specimen of humanity than is or can be produced in the old worn out States of our union; we hardly get under way again until we are signaled, and we have a repetition of more living freight being poured into the cars and still there is room. Mention the Snuggs Band aided and assisted by the Winters Band discourses sweet music as we speed along down through the endless fields of grain till here we are at

A beautiful little town of seven or eight hundred nestling in the foothills, surrounded and embowered in a sheen of living green and flowers and everything that seems to tend to beautify and make home lovely. The train stops and a procession is formed with the music in front and rear, and how so many people could be packed into that train was one of the mysteries to us, but here we are in the College grounds which are decked all over with beautiful evergreens. A long shed is arranged where ice cream and other toothsome delicacies of the season are for sale for the benefit of the College. These little stalls were presided over by that stay and sheet anchor of man, the ladies, God bless them, and the way that the quarters and halves jingled over the rough counters gave evidence of the proverbial liberality of the average Californian. Now we ascend into the College chapel where our eyes were greeted by a beautiful array of young girls on the stage, which was all decked with beautiful flowers. They sang in their sweet girlish tones a May day song; then came a dialogue and the crowning of the May Queen and she was a queen in beauty and were it not that Mrs. O'Shanter has a happy faculty of pulling our golden locks when we expatiate too much on the beauty of other females, we would write a column on her beauty and of those who were her assistants in that beautiful and touching ceremony, the crowning. Then comes the children and sing around the throne of their May Queen. Then a speech from PRESIDENT TAFT. Who dealt in facts and he told some plain truths, but we must say that he used a few "lang" words which we consider quite out of place at such a gathering; his speech was forcible and to the point, and as nine-tenths of the people of the Pacific coast use "lang," everybody understood him when he told them to meet "facts" as men or "go back in their shells." After him came singing by about fifty of the scholars of the school. Then a pithy speech from Rev. —, who frequently brought down the house, especially in his allusion to some remarks about the Professor, who when the audience were being seated advised the young folks to sit three deep and also in his address to them to "pop" the question at the very earliest opportunity. Song, Star Spangled Banner and other national airs by the school; then an adjournment to the grounds, where everybody eat dinner. In the school house in the College grounds, the band struck up and ye festive youths and damsels did trip the light fantastic with a vigor that would have done honor to the "Sylvester Swipes" in his celebrated beardance. One young man whose legs were as new or "go back in their shells" three times as fast as the skin thereof, came very near meeting with a serious mishap, he gave his legs a mystic ding and I suppose the penis "set" on them in that position, and it was only by the united efforts of ourselves and several others that we again got him into his normal condition. Order prevailed everywhere. Next, the old folks concert which was simply a grand affair, and carried a man back to the days of his grandmother; we were not a little surprised at representation of things a hundred years ago but as we are not quite that old and not having figured in the social world even eighty years ago to any great extent, we cannot speak from personal knowledge; anyhow it was an enjoyable time and everybody went home happy, and we think will long remember the first of May at Vacaville. Now we are on the train again bound for

WINTERS.

What in the mischief got into the people that they would not occupy one of the best seats in the car, when things were so crowded, we cannot say, but certain it is they did not and would not be induced to sit there. As we came slowly back we were regaled with a sweet song by a young man with a mouth like a cat fish and lungs like a fog horn. That young man will make a fortune if he falls in with Barnum. And now we are at home, thanks to the kindness of Bush, and other proprietors of our little home railroad, the name of which our citizens should be proud and render any and all assistance reasonably in their power to help to support, maintain and make it a permanent success.

PIC-NIC AT WOODLAND.

The Turners' picnic at Woodland was all that was anticipated and a fine time was had generally. The place selected was about six miles from town on the bank of Cache Creek, a very fine location. Swings were in motion and afforded enjoyment for the children as well as for older persons. A large platform was erected, and the music furnished by the Sacramento Band was very fine. People from different parts of the county were present. A good time was had as usual at the Turners' picnic.

MONTICELLO PIC-NIC.

The picnic at Monticello was a grand affair, there being a large turnout from all parts of that section of the county. In the evening there was a grand party at the Zum Zum Springs, and our friend Owens treated the boys in fine style. The dancing was kept up until sundown when all departed in fine spirits. The Rice Band of Winters furnished the music for the day and evening and gave entire satisfaction.

DIXON PIC-NIC.

The Picnic at Washington Park, Dixon, was, as is always the case, under the management of our friend, Mr. George Frabm, a grand success. All kinds of amusements were on the grounds, and George made himself agreeable to all present. The Woodland band furnished the music for the occasion, and as for music, cannot be beat. Nothing happened during the day to mar the pleasure of those present and everything passed off pleasantly.

Choir meeting Saturday evenings.

The church session will meet to-day two o'clock p.m., at the residence of the Lord Supper will be administered immediately after morning service to-morrow.

Services at the M. E. Church South,

Rev. J. K. Price, pastor, first and third Sundays of the month, morning and evening.

Sabbath School at 9 a.m. Prayer meeting, Wednesday evenings. Services at Davisville second and fourth Sundays of the month.

Services at the Christian Church, second and fourth Sundays by Elder Danton, and third Sunday of the month by Elder Smith of the Baptist Church.

AN INCIDENT.—We passed along the streets of the great city of San Francisco, at eleven o'clock; the little child tugged at our coat, with "please buy, buy my flowers."

We looked and the plucked white flowered like an apparition in the glare of the street lamp; the little red face was wet with the mist of night; the tiny skirts clung loosely about the puny frame.

The flowers were faded and withered, we bought them, then asked her what she wanted with the money. To "buy bread" she said. We have heard of brutal men making little waifs beg for them, so we watched the child go into a low bakery and beer saloon, she bought the bread and hurried away to a dark, low, noisome alley and there devoured it with a pale, hollow-eyed woman, who quickly took the child to her bosom. Whether she was stereotyped in crime or not we know not correctly, but we suggest that some Chinese bound Missionary stop a while at home and carry not only the gospel but bread to his own people.

WROOP.—The way our jeans fix it is thus: He makes a spring out of a tough piece of wood, tacks one end of the spring to the inside of a good leather, puts a needle through the other end of the wood spring, ties a twine to the spring near the center, bore a hole through the goods box just large enough for the fine point of the needle to come through, when the spring is pulled back and let "ker dip," when the needle immediately disappears. Then he engages the boys in an interesting conversation inviting them to be seated on the box when he playfully gives the hidden string a little pull and then the boys get up quick and gaze long and wistfully at the said box and refuse to presch for the time being.

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.—The following gentlemen have been appointed to receive subscriptions to build the Catholic Church at Winters: At Madison, Messrs. Mos-bacher, Tandy and Readman; At Winters, Messrs. McGrath, Lovitts, Seman and Manyon. Further Ward intends to commence building the church soon and finish it by the first of August at furthest. Our liberal and enterprising merchant, Mr.

Mandfield, has given the necessary site and we feel confident that others will contribute as far as their means will permit.

Come to what you can; they are all sim-ing at heaven and all are therefore entitled to the same consideration at the hands of the human family at large.

ORATOR.—We intended to notice the excellent performance given at this place by the members of the Capay Valley Lodge, I. O. G. T., but the same was overlooked. We make amends by saying that the performance itself, the "Reformed Drunkard," was a complete success, so much so in fact that one of the ladies, Mrs.

Norton we believe who represented the drunkard's wife acted so real and life like that the frequently brought tears to the eyes of the audience. Each of the actors sustained their parts well and we speak for them a hearty reception wherever they may go.

We would call the attention of the public to the advertisement in another column of the Arcade Hotel, Dixon, Mr. P. Willott, Proprietor. Parties visiting Dixon would do well to call on the Arcade, where they can get good meals, the best market afford, also good, airy rooms. Mr. Willott has just completed his new addition which will make the Arcade one of the finest hotels outside of San Francisco. Give him a call when you go to Dixon.

DENTISTRY.—Dr. Robinson will be in Winters Monday, May 19th, to remain one week at the Pioneer Drug Store. Persons desiring his services will please call the early part of the week. He is prepared to perform all dental operations; persons having plates made can have them put in and adjusted a few days after the impression is taken.

Notice.—Having disposed of our interest in the merchandise business in Winters, we respectfully request all those indebted to us to come forward and settle their accounts by note or cash immediately.

BURN & CO.

W. E. Hays thinks of removing his blacksmith shop to Main street.

BREVITIES.

Hands for buying is in demand.

The clatter of the sickle is heard on every hand cutting hay.

Our citizens will build a college some time next year.

Our merchants are preparing for a shallow trade.

Willie's tin shop has removed next door to the Occidental Hotel, Railroad street.

Services have been held every evening this week at the M. E. Church South.

None of our citizens were disabled at the picnic, although we all "it nobly."

The Occidental is treating itself to a new coat of paint; Dr. Norwood is the artist.

The dog poisoner is around again and Edward has bought up all the camphorated oil in town.

Our Postmaster, Mr. Moody, and Dr.

Gregory are erecting a fine wind mill and tack on their premises.

Sim. Blum has opened an office for the settlement of his business in the post of-ice.

O. P. Fasse, our enterprising vegetable merchant has just received a fresh supply of vegetables.

Uncle Joe Hulse, proprietor of the Accidental Saloon, has just received and set in place a fine new style pool table.

A Vallejo or Suisun Constable succeeded in making himself thoroughly ridiculous at the picnic at Vacaville the other day.

D. P. Edwards, the proprietor of the Occidental, thinks of carrying water all through the hotel in pipes.

Prof. Smith, President of the Hesperian

College, Woodland, preached in the Christian Church last Sabbath forenoon, to a large congregation.

The members of the Lodge of K. of P.

are requested to be present at the next regular meeting as business of importance will be transacted.

Chafe Switzer has a new hydrant in front of his saloon. Jim says those not wishing strong drink to call on the hydrant.

They received a supply of ice last night.

Under the head of new this week, appears the advertisement of the Elk Horn

Sample Rooms, Main Street, Winters, J.

Murray & Co., Proprietors.

The photographic tent of Baird, Davidson & Co., will remain at Vacaville for ten days only, when they will go to Elmira to remain the same length of time.

The Dr. informs us that he was not "knunked." That he will play any of the parties for $10 again; that proof of the putting is showing the stick.

Bowen Bros. are now living stabliferately at their destination on Main street every morning after the numerous accidents and delays.

Hydrants are being erected along Main street supplied by the large new tank and mill lately erected back of Sacket's brick building.

The Winters Library Association will meet at the Occidental next Thursday evening, 9th inst., at 7 1/2 o'clock. All who have subscribed to the library fund are requested to attend.

One or two good dwellings in town to rent cheap, now is the time for persons wanting a house to apply, as empty dwellings are something that don't happen often here.

Read under the heading "New this Week," the advertisement of Bowen Bros.

They have their stable now on Main street, and will be ready for the accommodation of the public by Monday or Tuesday.

Harting, Lowry & Co., took possession of the store recently occupied by Burn &

Co., on Wednesday, May 1st. The store is crowded with general merchandise; if you don't believe it go and see for yourselves.

P. J. McGrath of this place is promi-nently spoken of as a candidate for the Constitutional Convention to represent Yolo county. A better man for the position could not be easily picked up in Yolo county.

The splendid new windmill on the north of Main street, put up for the purpose of supplying property owners with water on that side is rapidly approaching completion. It is the highest mill in town, the fans standing fully forty feet above the ground.

We have been handed the following by Mrs. Dr. Gregory: I had rather have my name inscribed on the hearth of the righteous and good, than to have it inscribed on tables of stone or monuments of marble, they will fall beneath the crumbling hand of time, but the immortal spirit will live forever.

Farmers will please take notice of the advertisement of Marcus Hawley & Co., of San Francisco and Sacramento, in another column. They have the famous Jackson Grain Lifter, and is something very much needed among our farmers.

Those wishing agricultural implements would do well to consult the above firm.

Archie Henderson, our young friend recently bookkeeper for Harting, Lowry &

Co., left for Occidental yesterday to sustain a like position in the branch house at that place. We would recommend him to the care of the young ladies of Occidental and we also understand that several of the young ladies of this place intend to wear mourning for the period of thirty days.
